

Civil Defense Organization of Two City Zones

Two zones within the city are to be congratulated for having achieved a complete organization of the Civil Defense Program, announced George Fowel, assistant director of Civilian Defense.

These districts include Hollywood Riviera, Seaside Ranchos, Pacific Hills. It is divided into 15 separate defense areas. Area wardens are conducting training meetings this week, said Fowel.

A committee in the Health-Medical-Mass Care program will establish the casualty station to be located at the Seaside School. Eighteen men in this district are trained personnel in the law enforcement service. Ten men are trained in the fire protection services. An estimated 200 residents in this district have completed first aid and home nursing training service since the first of the year.

TV Western Star at Grand Opening of Knolls Market

Residents of Torrance, Lomita Harbor City, and the Shoshone Strip have good cause for celebration today as the modern, new Knolls Market, located at Western avenue and 234th street holds its grand opening. Tex Harrison, famous television and radio star along with his horse, Sunset, will be at the market from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday to give demonstrations of trick roping, whip cracking and to sing favorite Western songs. Tex is Chief Ranger of the Safety Rangers of America.

People in the area have been watching the construction of this new, large modern market, part of a full block shopping center for months, eagerly awaiting its completion.

Owners of the new marketing center, Lou LeLacheur, his son, Jerry LeLacheur, and Johnny Johnson, are happy to inform the budget-wise housewives that they will offer outstanding values, as advertised in the retail section of the paper, not only for its grand opening, but during its entire permanent operation.

With 25 years experience in this business, Lou LeLacheur and his partners know that shopping convenience and time saving is of utmost importance to the average homemaker and have planned their new market accordingly.

EASY-TO-FIND SECTIONS
They have provided efficiently labeled easy-to-find grocery and produce sections in their more than 6000-square-foot market. The soft-colored and modern interior is harmoniously blended by the latest in fluorescent lighting, the new slim-line overhead fluorescent tubes.

FREE FOOD SAMPLES
Free food samples will be offered to shoppers during this grand opening along the many grocery, produce and delicatessen displays, and bubble gum will be provided for the kiddies.

IMPORTED DELICATESSENS
Shoppers who look for the unique and different in taste adventure will be happy to note the self-service delicatessen and frozen food sections. A complete line of imported delicatessen will always be on stock here.

Knowing that experience in meat buying and cutting is invaluable to the meat buying public, the LeLacheurs and Johnson have leased the service meat counter to Steve and Tony Tyo, well known in the Southland during the past 15 years for their experience in buying choice cuts of prime meat.
